

ATTORNEY

JOSS MORRIS

Joss is an experienced attorney working across a wide range of investment funds, corporate and finance matters for over 25 years. He trained, qualified in 2001, and worked as a solicitor with Linklaters in London and Central & Eastern Europe from 1999 to 2006, and was admitted as an attorney in the Cayman Islands in 2006. He has been consistently ranked by the major legal directories, including Chambers & Partners and Legal 500, across corporate, finance and investment funds matters, being recognised for his responsiveness, acumen, commercial outlook and personal touch, as well as his ability to work and communicate with stakeholders across the globe on cross-border transactions.

Joss advises across all types of regulated (with the Cayman Islands Monetary Authority) and non-regulated investment fund and venture capital structures, including fund structuring, fund formation, secondary transfers, fund finance, fund restructurings and transactional portfolio matters, as well as advising on specific regulatory and corporate governance requirements.

Joss also has particular expertise advising family offices and institutional investors, including pension funds, sovereign wealth funds, ultra-high-net-worth individuals, endowments, foundations and insurance companies, with Chambers & Partners (2025) stating, "Joss Morris is efficient and commercial and has the mentality of approaching matters from the investor side. As such, investors have a great deal of confidence in him." With his holistic approach and broad experience covering corporate and finance transactions, Joss also regularly advises institutional investor and family office clients on the Cayman Islands law corporate and finance aspects of M&A transactions and associated financing.

Joss's wider corporate and finance practice covers M&A, shareholder matters, corporate finance, joint ventures and redomiciliations, as well as a wide range of finance transactions, including real estate finance, acquisition finance, venture series financing and fund finance. He acts for private equity firms, individuals, family offices, corporates, banks and other financial institutions. He also advises on digital and blockchain-related matters, including token issuance structures and virtual asset service provider regulatory registration.
